

Empowering all refugees to program their future

The project

The NewTalents4EU project aims to demonstrate that refugees' workforce should be considered as a valuable resource of the European labour market in order to strengthen the European economy. The objective is to design and pilot an innovative path for labour integration of refugees, based on a specific IT skill development programme.

The objectives

- Collecting previous country-based experiences regarding IT training for refugees;
- Building a standard IT training scheme for refugees
- Piloting the validated schemes in 4 European countries
- Evaluating the different pilots
- Capitalising results to set-up a shared business model for future replication

The trainings

The trainings are at the heart of the project. Their aim is to furnish to refugees IT skills to help their integration in the European labour market and contribute to the EU economy.

Partners will design a common IT training scheme standard. According to that, there will be the set-up and the implementation of pilots in four countries (France, Italy, UK and Hungary). The goal is to demonstrate their high potential for quick and long-term labour market integration and to improve their skills for future larger deployment.

The partnership

NewTalents4Eu project is supported by the European Union's AMIF Action Grant (AMIF-2017-AG-INTE 821745)
