

The TEAMWORK 2 project directly contributes to addressing sexual harassment (SH) at the workplace, which is a widespread and underreported form of gender-based violence across the EU. The TEAMWORK 2 project is a direct continuation of the REC-funded TEAMWORK 1 project, whose research activities resulted in better understanding of the issue of sexual harassment at the workplace, and to a set of recommendations that will contribute to its more effective addressing at the local and national level.

The TEAMWORK 2 project adopts the following specific objectives:

- 1 Enhance prevention and handling of sexual harassment at the workplace through capacity building of multipliers, who will assist companies/organizations to adopt effective internal policies.
- 2 Improve the protection of victims/survivors and empower them to report the issue through the creation of new widely accessible services.
- 3 Strengthen interagency collaboration and develop local/regional/national networks that contribute to prevention and reducing of the problem.
